

The tourist-cultural utilization of these and other colonial fortifications that pervade the vast perimeter of the Portuguese Americas is being developed very effectively by a variety of public and private organizations responsible for administering these architectural enclosures of military origin.

Special thanks to responsible, for many years, the restoration and conservation of Fort São João, the Fortress of Santo Amaro and the “Casa do Trem Bélico” (Warlike Train House).

___The Iphan, Regional Southeast, presented a defense of the fortifications of the State of São Paulo, to compete for the title of World Heritage. With the permission of the architect Victor Hugo Mori / Iphan/SP, we include hyperlinks indicated on the left.
